SUBJECT: Homes for Interns – You can help.

Corporate internships and cooperative education positions are a great way for our students to gain real world experience and be exposed to opportunities for future employment. Perhaps you were a former intern or co-op and can recall the excitement of the experience and connecting with new friends. You too, may have faced the difficult challenge of securing temporary housing.

Now you can help a future intern or co-op in a unique way – in connecting him or her with local housing that will make this opportunity possible. Interns and co-ops need housing throughout the U.S. They typically require temporary housing from three to six months, but could be longer depending on the assignment.

How you can help

Many corporations offering internships and cooperative education positions to our students have established relationships with an online “intern-friendly housing” search tool managed by internhousing.com. As an Alumni of our school, you can post “Private Owner Listings” or any other type of rental housing on this website free of charge. The tool gives you a way to rent those empty rooms, or apartments and help our interns find affordable temporary housing.
